Subj: Pharmalucence Divests IBL 437C Blood Irradiator Service Business to MikRon, Inc.

Dear IBL Service Contract Customer:

I am pleased to announce that on May 8th, Pharmalucence divested its IBL 437C Blood Irradiator Service Business to MikRon, Inc.

MikRon, Inc. is owned by two former Pharmalucence field service engineers, Michael Thomson and Ronald McCoy. We have known the principals of MikRon, Inc. for many years and admire their high level of commitment to customer service and engineering excellence. We believe this buyer is an ideal choice to fulfill your service requirements in the coming years.

Pharmalucence made the decision to exit the IBL service business because it no longer fits with our core focus in production and marketing of human injectables. Until August 6, 2014 Pharmalucence will continue to provide service via its agreement with Gamma Irradiator Services. You should contact Pharmalucence Customer Service at 800-221-7554 for any IBL Service needs during this business transition period.

Pharmalucence would like to thank all of our IBL service contracts for their many years of support. Please feel free to call me directly with any questions or concerns at 781-687-1204.

Sincerely,
